

The Perfect Father's Day

This year, Father's day is Sunday, June 19th, and many people are pondering what they should you get Dad? Forget those ugly ties and coffee mugs inscribed with "world's greatest dad" on them. This year, why not have an outdoor man cave built for him?

A project like this starts with the creation of an outdoor patio, usually in the backyard. (The bigger the better, of course.) How are you going to burn all the debris you have collected over the years? Well, you could add a large fire pit to the patio! It makes a great place for gatherings, too. Similarly, there's no better place for Dad to smoke one of his favorite cigars that he's received this past holiday season.

Of course, you will also need a built-in barbecue grill for all the summer grilling, entertaining, and parting that you are about to have. Make sure you leave room for an outdoor refrigerator, because Dad certainly does not want to walk far for another beer. What would go great in the corner of Dad's new man cave? A large built in hot tub, with waterfall of course, would be perfect, because he needs something to relax his muscles from all the hard work he does during the week. Finally, don't forget about an outdoor TV, so Dad can watch the little league world series this summer (always one of my favorites).

Sure, we can let the misses pick out the patio furniture, because she will want a say in the matter, but at this point, does it really matter what she picks out? There's no better way to say "Happy Father's Day"! Give us a call at 1 (800) Mulch-Pro to get your consultation for Dad's perfect gift!

Paul Doherty

President | D&D Mulch and Landscape, Inc.